

Feast Centre for Indigenous STBBI Research

Feast Centre Community Fellowship Program – APPLICATION Form (For Feast team members)

Section 1

Welcome to the Community Fellowship Program APPLICATION

The Community Fellow Sponsorship program is open to Feast team members who wish to nurture, support, and sponsor upcoming Indigenous and allied community-based researchers who may already be connected to an existing STBBI research project that is responding to Indigenous STBBI at your institute OR who are committed to collaboratively developing innovative Indigenous methods in STBBI research at the community level within your community-based organization (CBO).

The Community Fellow Sponsorship Program is meant to support new and emerging Indigenous (First Nations, Métis, Inuit) and allied researchers who are interested in building on Indigenous community knowledges and using Indigenous methods to conduct research that responds to Indigenous sexually transmitted and blood-borne illness (STBBI). The Community Fellowship program is intended as a reciprocal learning opportunity where the broader Feast team will learn with the Community Fellow.

Thank you for choosing to submit your application to the Feast Centre. Please refer to the Community Fellowship Program Application Guideline document that outlines in more detail what is needed to complete this application. We also are providing a CHECKLIST of what information will be required in Section 2 of this application.
